RANCHER'S WIFE IS KIDNAPED

FEARS OF WAR SUBSIDE FOR NEXT 2 WEEKS

Germany Assures No Over-Hasty Steps; Czechs

Praha, Sept. 2.—(UP)—Czechoslovakia apprehensively marked time today amid conflicting reports while waiting for definite word of what Chancellor Hitler of Germany plans to do about the Sudeten Germans.

Government sources expressed belief that Konrad Henlein, Sudeten German leader, and Hitler, with whom he conferred at Berchtesgaden, would keep the door open for negotiations over the German minority's Nazi-supported demands for autonomy.

Information from Berlin which was not confirmed, was less optimistic. Sources close to German opinion said they expected that Hitler would accept nothing less than a plebiscite in the Sudeten German region to let the republic's German minority decide its future for itself.

By EDWARD W. BEATTIE, JR., United Press Staff Correspondent. Berlin, Sept. 2.—(UP)—Germany has given assurances to Great Britain that she will undertake no over-hasty steps in the Czechoslovak minority dispute, it was said today in an authoritative quarter.

It was believed that the assurance was given through Sir Neville Henderson, British ambassador. It was understood that in return for the German assurances, the British government pledged that if minority proposals made by the Czechoslovak government and the German party is expected to advance resulted in a deadlock, Viscount Runciman, British adviser in the minority dispute, would publish his own conclusions and suggestions by mid-September.

Delayed Two Weeks—This meant that the fear of war which has hung over millions of homes in a dozen European countries was put off for two weeks. It did not mean a solution of the Czechoslovak problem. But it meant that if direct negotiations in the minority dispute failed—as was feared—the British adviser would publish his own conclusions. That these would be more generous than any offers which the Czechoslovak government might make, as regards concessions for the German and other minorities in Czechoslovakia, observers here had no doubt.

Also, the mid-September deadline (Continued on Page Ten)

Dove Hunters Must Not Shoot Chicks

Persons who intend to go hunting in this county had better learn the difference between a chicken and a dove.

This followed a report by Mike Devine of Chebanse that some unidentified hunters were shooting chickens yesterday in the vicinity.

Say Love Potion Had Part in Her Wedding

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Search for a pretty Neosho, Mo., girl who eloped with a wealthy Arabian youth continued in eastern cities today after federal authorities here declared a "powerful love potion" had figured in the run-away marriage.

Henry G. Morris, assistant United States attorney, said a small bottle of the liquid, which had "a strong and exotic fragrance," was left by the girl, Boris Hisaw, 17, when she eloped recently to Bentonville, Ark., with Nijib Toonle, 27-year-old Arab.

He stated the vial was found among the girl's belongings by her mother, Mrs. Lorene Hisaw, a Neosho school teacher. She forwarded it to estranged husband, Otis Hisaw, turned it over to an agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Hisaw, fearing his daughter would be placed in an Arabian harem, obtained the aid of federal authorities in seeking to prevent the newlyweds from sailing for Toonle's homeland of Iraq.

WIRE-TAPPED EVIDENCE IN RACKET TRIAL

Conversation Read Before Jury in Hines Trial

By E. C. DANIEL
New York, Sept. 2.—(AP)—Transcribed records of wire-tapped evidence were read today in the policy racket conspiracy trial of Tammany District Leader James J. Hines as a purported conversation between J. Richard (Dick) Davis, the "kid mouthpiece" of the Dutch Schultz policy mob, and a man identified as "Jim."

After a surprise start to the day's session, with Defense Counsel Lloyd Paul Stryker announcing that he was through with his cross-examination of Davis, Detective Julius Salke took the stand and read a wire-tapped conversation.

A man named "Joe" was quoted as calling Davis' wire-tapped telephone in 1932, saying, "The boss wants to talk with you."

Another voice came on the 'phone. Davis replied: "Yes, Jim."

"I'm going downtown with Johnny Deltz and I'll send Ed No. 1 over," Salke quoted the record. "Okay," acknowledged Davis.

The call, Detective Salke said, was made at 8:30 a. m., on Sept. 28, 1933—about a year after Hines.

POST GUARD AT HOSPITAL BED OF RENA BELAND

Slayer of Cooley Is Ordered Held for Murder

Rena Beland, 30, fighting for her life in St. Mary hospital with a bullet in her brain, hasn't much to live for today.

If the recovery she will face a charge of murder, this having been determined yesterday afternoon at the inquest into the death of her lover, Clemon Cooley, 31, of 259 East Sycamore street, who died at 12:55 o'clock Sunday morning in the hospital.

She shot Cooley her common-law husband, Saturday night on the Grinnell road northeast of Kankakee, then, after taking him to the hospital, turned the gun on herself.

As the result of the inquest jury's recommendation that she be held to the grand jury on a charge of murder, a homicide warrant was to be served upon her today by Sheriff John Stack.

Gets Delirious—Last night Henry Greenwood, special police officer, was stationed at her bedside, this being necessary when she became delirious and unmanageable from high temperature. Her recovery is not likely.

Today, Dr. J. A. Guerita was to perform a post mortem operation upon Cooley's body in order to remove the bullet. In the event of the woman's recovery they will be needed as evidence.

Corner A. E. Keiger now has a complete story of the double shooting with the exception of the woman's own story. Except for a few words in her hospital bed, she said herself, her lips have been sealed because of her condition. Her statement at the hospital was to deny that she shot Cooley. "It's a lie," she screamed when Cooley told Police Officer Don Bleau that she had used the revolver on him. "He's drunk," she added.

"Other Woman" Talks—Jealousy because Cooley of late had been "going" with Miss Ruth Miller is supposed to have been the motive for the shooting. Miss Miller, who lives at 491 North Harrison avenue, told the inquest jury yesterday that she met Cooley "where I work."

Witnesses at the inquest, besides Miss Miller, were Police Officers Bleau and John Powell, M. L. Clancy, funeral director who described the death wounds; C. V. Hieronymus of 402 South Myrtle avenue, Cooley's employer; Joseph Bracewell, who is Mrs. Beland's 14-year old son; Noah Betourne, assistant fire chief, who was present when the woman shot herself; E. McKinnis and Rose Kemnitz, waitresses in a Kankakee restaurant.

The latter two witnesses said they saw Cooley and Mrs. Beland in Ruddy's cafe on highway 49 north of Kankakee, that the woman was

FRANCE KEEPS RESERVE ARMY IN READINESS

Awaits Results of Mobilization of Nazi Troops

Authoritative sources said that the decision had been made because of prolongation of the German maneuvers until September 23, although previously the war ministry spokesman at Paris said that no special military measures had been taken.

Information in London was that the French high command would release its supplementary reserves on September 23 if the German troops are released.

France's regular reservists total more than 350,000 men who do short periods of training. The regular military class, reported as scheduled yesterday and the outgoing class was due to be released.

"Noseworthy" Paint's History Told Here

The story of the development of odorless paint in the local plant of the American Asphalt Paint company was told yesterday by T. C. Ford, vice president and general manager, who addressed the Rotary club Thursday noon in the Hotel Kankakee.

By introducing new products to the trade during slow business years the local firm has been able to maintain its place as one of the leaders of the industry. In 1929, American Asphalt, pioneered in the aluminum point field, brought out a product using asphalt as a base and a paste form of aluminum. This has since been the backbone of its business.

Last February, the deodorized paint was first put on the market after many months of research and development. The result was that American Asphalt volume for the first seven months of this year showed a decline of only 12 per cent as compared with the 37 per cent decrease for the industry as a whole.

Perfumes Fall—Mr. Ford, who holds several patent rights himself, had an important part in perfecting the odorless paint. Chemists had tried neutralizing odors by incorporating into the paint various essence oils, but this left a so-called perfume that it was as objectionable as the ordinary paint odor.

Next they tried deodorizing the oils, gums and thinners themselves before mixing. Each element constituted its own problem, however. After the odor was removed from the thinner, the drying qualities could no longer be controlled and it didn't have the necessary solvency. The gums wouldn't mix up properly and the initial cost of the product was prohibitive since only imported oil could be used and it required special treatment.

Finally, Mr. Ford conceived the idea of manufacturing a special gum which, with a thixotropic agent, solved the manufacturing problem giving the product a high degree of workability. Some painters have reported up to 50 per cent more spreading surface with the new product, Ford said.

It's "Noseworthy"—The new "noseworthy" paint comes out in gobs when the can is first opened, but as soon as it is stirred the thixotropic agent (meaning, to thin by stirring) smooths it out thin by stirring. The speaker brought several samples of his products for examination. He was introduced by Dr. C. A. Perreault and the club's thanks was voiced by President B. F. Hertz. Lyle Everist was a guest at the meeting.

SMALL RANSOM DEMANDED BY 2 ABDUCTORS

Carried From Home, Tied Hand and Foot

Marysville, Calif., Sept. 2.—(UP)—National guardsmen, police and G-men today joined in the search for Mrs. W. R. Meeks, 55, who was kidnapped last night from her ranch home, 13 miles from here.

Governor Merriam's action in ordering out two companies of the national guard to "track down and capture" the kidnapers was without precedent. As the companies were mustered at Marysville and Yuba City it was learned that two suspects were held in a town near here. Officers refused to reveal their names.

"They admit they were out all night, but they claim they went to Stockton and were not near Marysville," one officer said. "If their alibi is okay we'll release them, but we aren't overlooking any possibilities in this case."

Nat J. Pless, chief of the San Francisco division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and three of his agents were enroute here.

Yuba City, Calif., Sept. 2.—(AP)—Two masked, roughly-dressed young men kidnapped Mrs. W. R. Meeks, 55-year-old wife of an wealthy Butte county rancher, from her home early this morning for $15,000 ransom, Sheriff—Deputy—reported.

Meeks said the kidnapers, one of them threatening him with a pistol, forced their way into his home shortly before midnight, bound him and his wife and then ransomed the house.

They fled with Mrs. Meeks, in her husband's automobile, leaving the 58-year-old rancher tied hand and foot on his living room floor.

As they were leaving the house the pair stood over Meeks and demanded the ransom. He said they told him:

"Well, contact you in a couple of days for that fifteen thousand." G-Men Join Search.

Federal bureau of investigation agents left for the scene early today to join sheriff's officers and the state highway patrol.

A posse of ranchers, armed with rifles and pistols, also participated in the search.

The posse divided forces near Meek's orchard, and began to search the Bear River valley. The ranchers believed the men might be hiding in the lowlands along streams, or might have fled and left Mrs. Meeks hidden near the river.

Gov. Frank F. Merriam ordered two national guard companies to report to local authorities to aid in the search.

Meek's automobile was found abandoned on one of the main streets of Marysville, and FBI men examined it for fingerprints. Sheriff Ulrey theorized the men have used two automobiles when they drove away from the Meeks' place.

The rancher "guessed" the men were about 24 to 25 years old. They (Continued on Page Ten)

Paris, Sept. 2.—(INS)—Two hundred of Adolf Hitler's wartime buddies and French veterans are revisiting the trenches today.

Apparently upon the friendly terms the German soldiers showed their former comrades various trenches and dugouts in which they had been stationed and related amusing incidents of life in the trenches.

But despite continued grating from the French soldiers the two battalions have held daylight hours about anecdotes concerning their former wartime activities.

CAST OF CHARACTERS
LINDA GORDON—heroine, she will win the big prize.
BRUCE RADFORD—newspaperman, he would give up anything for Linda.
DONALD SANDY—herman, he would give up anything, too, for a good horse.
MONTIE HILL—rich racing devotee, he also wanted Linda.

Yesterday, just as the auctioneer of Golden Toy is about to begin a big car slither to a stop at the house of the millionaire.

CHAPTER V
A man leaped from the car, a powerful-built fellow, with fitting gray teeth. As he started toward the barn door straight to the auctioneer.

Linda Gordon gave a start. "Montie Hill," she exclaimed to her. He turned a puzzled face toward her. "Friend of mine on the juvenile scene last week," she explained quickly, then stepped forward. He marveled at the auctioneer, with eyes on the auctioneer.

"Say, Am I in time? Just few down from Belmont—bought a car in Louisville—this is—looked sharply at the colt. "Golden Toy, isn't he gone?"

"Just in the nick of time, my good friend," the auctioneer said. "Sale just starting—to the highest bidder—the colt of Golden Toy, a yearling, no and no reasonable, bid accepted. Now I offer—"

Again his voice went into sing-song. "Golden Toy, 2 years old, by Pompey, out of Toy Girl, by Lady, a great Pompon, winner of the Belmont Futurity, the Dixie Handicap, and many other races. Give me a nice bidder, please."

Linda had wanted to go to Montie's side, but things were moving too fast. She had to catch his eye.

"One hundred dollars!" she called out. The auctioneer looked at her. "You're a good bidder, my friend," he said. "Sale just starting—to the highest bidder—the colt of Golden Toy, a yearling, no and no reasonable, bid accepted. Now I offer—"

He began protesting, as Montie Hill turned to Linda. "Surprise on his face. 'I ah—folks—folks! I can't take this offer. The colt should start at a couple of thousands!'"

"Two—"

The words rang out from the other side of the circle. Montie Hill stopped, whirled around to see who was making the bid. Greeting with content in his eyes. "This was business."

"I thank you, sir! Thank you, sir!" he said. "You didn't bid me fifty, the young man called out clearly."

"My bid was two hundred—you didn't bid me fifty, the young man called out clearly."

"And fifty—that's two hundred and fifty—"

"Montie Hill was at her side in three long steps. "Hello, Linda!" he called. "Never mind—till bid him in!"

"I'll bid him in!" he called. "Never mind—till bid him in!"

"I'll bid him in!" he called. "Never mind—till bid him in!"

Fighting is Severe Along the Yangtze

Shanghai, Sept. 2.—(P)—Severe fighting raged along the Yangtze and Yellow rivers today with both Chinese and Japanese claiming important victories.

Chinese military commanders said their forces inflicted 4,000 casualties as the Japanese tried to advance toward the Yangtze river about 100 miles southeast of Hankow, the provisional capital.

The Chinese also reported they recaptured Anshan, keypoint for a Japanese offensive toward Teian on the Nanchang-Kiukiang railway.

A Japanese column, however, was said to have reached a point three miles from Teian with the hope of joining another column that was marching from Singtze so that both could attack the railway north of Teian.

At Hwangmei, 25 miles north of Kiukiang and 105 miles southeast of Hankow, the Chinese said they fought the invaders to a standstill in hand-to-hand battle.

"Milk Post Office" Proposal Considered At Washington

Washington, Sept. 2.—(UP)—The justice and agriculture departments are considering today a proposal for establishment of "milk post offices" in large cities.

Although no specific plan has been promulgated, officials believe that some method of consolidating distribution would reduce the spread between what the farmer receives and what the consumer pays for milk.

The "post office" plan, being discussed by some officials, would call for a central agency, possibly with branch offices, where the consumer could purchase milk. It also calls for a delivery service for regular customers.

Because of the nebulous state of the plan, it has not been determined whether such an agency would be run by the government, like the present mail service, or by a private enterprise.

The justice department is now investigating the milk industry, and especially milk distribution, before a Chicago grand jury in an attempt to discover whether the present rigidity of milk prices is "accidental" or the result of planning on the part of distributors.

When the department began its inquiry, Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold in charge of the anti-trust division said that "the information now in the possession of the department of justice indicates that this condition (the maintenance of rigid and inflexible prices) is not accidental but is caused by conspiracies and agreements in restraint of trade."

Another possible remedy for the price "spread" being considered is legislation declaring the milk distributing industry a public utility. Under such a plan, the various participants in milk delivery would be placed under government control in much the same manner as railroads, telephone and telegraph companies.

The maintenance of rigid and artificially high milk prices, the department believes, not only violates the fundamental principle of competition written into the anti-trust laws but also operates to deprive healthful quantities of milk from families of low income.

The department recognizes that the milk industry is one in which vast supplies are available in the spring, but decrease more than one third in the winter.

Regardless of these factors, there is strong feeling that the spread in price between the farmer and the consumer is too great—in some cases it is more than 300 per cent. It is contended that there is much waste in milk delivery. For example, four or five milk trucks from as many different dairies may call each day at a single apartment house. Economies could be effected, it is believed, by better coordination and consolidation of delivery systems.

The "post office" idea first came to public attention through a New Jersey consumers group, which proposed it as a means of reducing milk prices and increasing farm income.

The discussion centered around a unified distribution system, possibly operated by cities themselves, under which city milk trucks would carry the products of all dairies enabling the citizens to select the variety of milk they desired.

Another proposal, said to have originated in Wisconsin, suggested that municipal authorities take over both milk distribution and pasteurization providing for a unified system and eliminating independent "middlemen" entirely.

It was understood that the plan is still in the "idea stage" and has not been given detailed study. Of here today to be an effort to finals regarded it as a possibility in future efforts to cut intermediate costs of milk between the farmer and the buyer.

A similar system, some officials hold, might be developed by the distributors themselves, eliminating necessity of municipalities stepping in to take over the job. Most officials regard the plan as one to be handled by local or state governments in which the federal government would not participate directly.

New Understanding With Poles Sought

London, Sept. 2.—(P)—Great Britain is seeking a new understanding with Poland in what was believed not been given detailed study. Of here today to be an effort to "squeeze" Germany into a policy of moderation in central Europe.

A pro-British Poland or even a neutral Poland, informed quarters felt, would be invaluable to the Anglo-French cause in any conflict with Germany.

This was thought to be the main reason for recent visits of the British charge d'affaires to Colonel Joseph Beck, Polish foreign minister, in Warsaw, and the visit Wednesday of the Polish charge d'affaires to Viscount Halifax, British foreign secretary.

Wedged between Russia and Germany, Poland would be in a difficult position in any major European conflict, it was pointed out. Poland has a 22-year friendship agreement with Nazi Germany, but the belief was expressed in informed London quarters that the main Polish hope in a war would lie in choosing the winning side.

Britain awaited Adolf Hitler's reply to the Czechoslovak government's plan to end its conflict with its Sudeten German minority by granting a cantonal form of government and to the personal appeal for peace said to have been sent directly to Hitler by Viscount Runc-iman, unofficial British mediator in the Czech-German crisis.
